

The New Game Killing Kids

Reader's Digest

Geena Davis

Can a Woman
Be President?

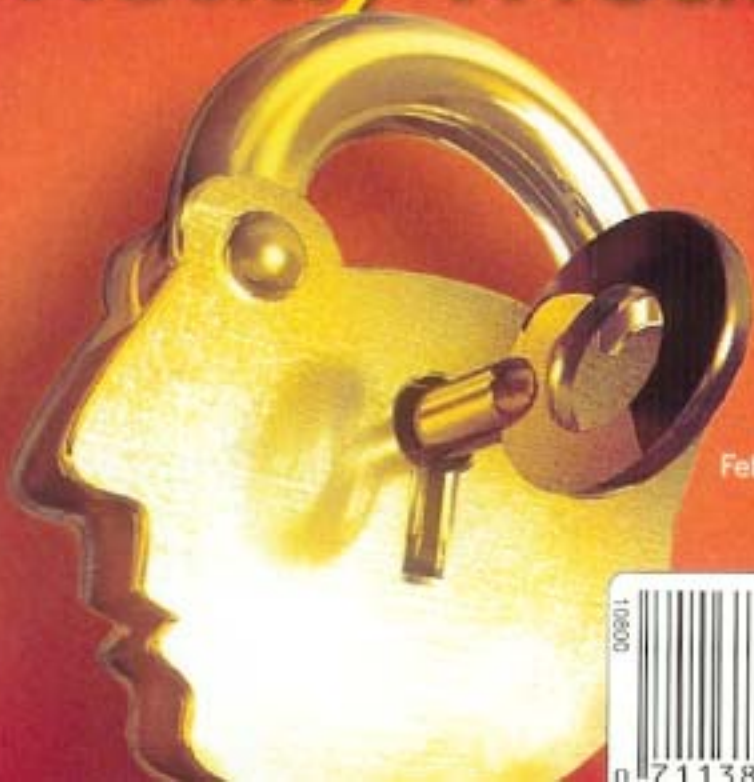

Confidence
Get It,
Use It

HEART HEALTH
Wakeup Call

Money
When It Comes
Between You

NEW RESEARCH

What Your Dreams
Really Mean

February 2006

$2.99

rd.com

Treats for Your Sweet

It was tough, but we did it. Reader's Digest staffers tried hundreds of chocolates to bring you the very best edible Valentines. How dedicated! Our favorites:

1. Chocolove

Eight unique bars, in flavors such as ginger, orange peel and extra-strong dark. Each bar lists the cocoa content and includes a love poem (chocolove.com; $23).

2. Michel Cluizel

These sophisticated Parisian sweets have a manly feel—all the way down to the cocoa-colored box (chocolat michel cluizel.com; $65 per pound).

3. Anna Shea Each hand-painted, filled chocolate is almost too beautiful to eat. Created by an artist turned chocolatier (annashea chocolates.com; $19 for 12).

4. Jacques Torres; Recchiuti Hot chocolate! Torres's is spiced powder; Recchiuti's has chocolate chunks (Recchiuti confections.com; $20; MrChocolate.com; $16).

5. Shari's Berries Your sweetheart will think she's opening a box of roses, but inside it's even better: a dozen delectably dipped strawberries (berries.com; $85).

6. SweetBliss Treats from the Moo Collection call to mind Mallomars, in yummy flavors such as banana, peanut butter and marshmallow (sweet bliss.com; $45 for 6).